

An amazing milestone, 100 certified refrigerations

HPi Verification Services (Ireland) Ltd has achieved a significant milestone with its client Cross Refrigeration Ltd, having been appointed as its Notified Body to certify refrigeration systems at Cross Refrigeration's 100th supermarket site.

Cross Refrigeration, a leading refrigeration contractor based in the Republic of Ireland, has been at the forefront of installing CO2 refrigeration systems for several major supermarket brands, including Aldi, SuperValu, Tesco, and Musgraves. Since its appointment of HPi Verification Services in 2019, Cross Refrigeration has focused on CO2 systems due to their substantially lower global warming potential compared to traditional refrigerants, aligning with the increasing environmental concerns and sustainability goals in the industry.

Matteo Convento, Technical Director at HPi Verification Services, remarked, "Reaching this milestone is a tribute not only to the commercial success of Cross Refrigeration but also to the consistently high level of service provided by HPiVS' office staff and inspectors." HPiVS serves numerous clients in the refrigeration sector in Ireland, with inspectors Seamus Scully and Andrew Power, who are based in Ireland, offering a responsive and agile service to cater to their clients' needs efficiently.

While maintaining a dominant position in the refrigeration sector, HPiVS has also successfully expanded its certification activities into other industries within Ireland, including the pharmaceutical industry, demonstrating its versatile and comprehensive certification capabilities.
